ELSEWHERE we publish a fair translation of the summarised Imporial Edict regarding the cessation of hostilities between France and China. Notwithstanding the state-Goods per Ningchow undelivered after ment there made that the French asked for peace, it is generally believed that the reverse was the true state of the case. It is useless now to haggle over this point, but it is fair to France to place on record our belief that the Chinese took the first step towards peaceful overtures.

> WE are strong in the belief that the Bill for Incorporating the Vicar Apostolic of the Roman Catholic Church in Hongkong will not become law until the Secretary of State for the Colonies has had an opportunity of examining the text of the measure. In view of the exceptional nature of this Ordinance, this course will be generally approved by residents of all shades of opinion, with the exception, perhaps, of the extreme clerical party.

There had been a sort of general delivery of im pounded mails, and in some cases letters six months old had come to light. Christmas and New Year greetings were a little out of date. In referring to the position of the Registrar General on the Executive and Legialative Councils, we ought to have mentioned that the seat on the Executive Council now occupied by Dr. Stewart is a personal appointment. As yet the Registrar General is not a member of the Executive Council by virtue of his office; but the argument advanced concerning the high standing of the gentleman likely at any time to fill that post is untouched. He will most likely at all times be a member of the Legislative Council, and probably have a sest on the Executive as well.

An inquest was held in Victoria Gao! this afternoon by the Coroner, Mr Wodehouse. and a jury, upon the body of a prisoner named Ho Amui, who died in the Gaol Hospital yesterday. Deceased entered the Gaol about the end of last November, on a sentence of six months' hard labour. A post mortem examination had been made considered that Mr Gladstone's firmness is by Dr Ayres, the Colonial Surgeon, and Dr. Hartigan, The evidence of these gentlemen showed that the immediate cause of the prisoner's death was general debility, induced by a complication of diseases of long standing in the system of deceased. A verdict of death from natural causes was

It has never been voyed cholera when travelling in a southerly direction, and this in the Upper Provinces is all the more noteworthy because the great drainage-channels, into which much of the choleraic matter must eventually find its way, run in the reverse direction of the epidemic. Railways have now placed the whole country within a few days of the endemic area, but the frequency tice with the latter's. Then he proposed of epidemics have by no means increased, nor is their movement more rapid, while their direction is wholly unaltered. Amongst the few places in or near India where the disease is little known, the hill station of Mussocrie is cited, which, although within seven miles of the plains, and drawing all its supplies thence, has suffered less over a long series of years than most towns in Passing on to the chapter which deals with cholera out of India, it is mentioned that reference is made to the disease in the old writings of China and Japan, and that The Claims settled since 1st January last | there can be no doubt that epidemics of it; occurred both in Europe and in America amount to Taels 86,000, and further Claims long before the great Bengal epidemic of still to be paid in respect of known casual- 1817. The visitations of cholera to Europe and America during the last fifty years are divided into three periods-1829 to 1864, 1865 to 1880, and 1880 to 1884. During. the first of these periods three epidemics were recorded, all of which appeared first in the east of Russia. The materials forthe history of the second period are collected from the late Mr Netten Radcliffe's exhaustive papers, and deal with the appearance of the disease in various Europoin countries each year from 1865 to 1874: during 1875 to 1877 no cases in Europe have been recorded, nor were there any in 1579. In connection with the third period, 1880 to 1884, the history of the recont epidemic is dealt with. In Dr. Cuningham's opinion, the upshot of all the evidence goes than it did before; and that in spite of railways and other improved means of communication, the recent European epidemic travelled no faster than did that of 1832. Even those who may disagree with Dr. Cuningham will allow that he puts forward the points in his argument with marked ability, and all who value the thorough aifting of evidence bearing on the truth or otherwise of current medical teaching will hail with pleasure the appearance of this volume at a time when so many are prone to accept as proved and finally disposed of some of the very statements and cincluslone which Dr. Cuningham so vigorously assails.
